“ Chad. Words come dripping slow in the aftermath of losing you. When I remember you, it will be of the grin you would have when you spoke of your precious baby boy. The first time I spoke to you was shortly after I had become a weno operator in VW. Your cell had been working 7 days a week for months. I covered for you on a saturday without hesitation... because all you wanted was a day with your son. Your work ethic was nonpareil. You had a self-motivation, talent, and skill that is a rarity among men. I pray that the Father will take you into his loving arms, that the Father's hands will comfort Ashley, your son, and your family. I pray he guides all of us through this time. We'll miss you Hambone.
