“ I had a conversation with Mrs. Orton several years ago about a button that had popped off my pants. She told me just to go home and sew it back on. I told her I didn't know how to do that as she looked back at me in shock. haha. Next thing, she called and invited me to lunch at Reeves, brought a homemade sewing kit, out of her collection. I still use the pin pillow today and think of her every time I use it. She didn't know me very well but, she was so kind to take the time to teach me how to sew on a button. I have always held onto that.
