“ Nell was so wonderful. Multiple times I would walk by her room at NHC Pulaski and she'd have her black glasses and light blue robe on, watching golf or basketball. She would tell me how much she loved Dr. pepper, Mac and cheese, and putting lotion on her face; and the time she played basketball. Around Christmas, I was putting lotion on her hands and face; she said "someday Polly, I'm going to do something nice for you". What she didn't know was she did nice things everyday. She didn't know that her jokes and teasing made my day when I was having a difficult shift. She didn't know that I always looked forward to going into her room to talk about when she played basketball or when she was a Sunday school teacher. She was such a joy to be around and just her presence lit the room. I'm so thankful to have met such a wonderful friend, and her family. She was an angel in disguise.
