“ I guess God needed a mechanic and he knew your time was near, you can now rest for ever in your Savior's arms, and know that we'll miss you because you are no longer here, I can only imagine the celebration in Heaven this morning as you stepped into the pearly gates, I'm sure Kim was waiting on you as you walked in because she knew that you wouldn't be late, your treasures are laid up in Heaven and yours crowns you now have won, Your troubles of life are now over and your work on earth, you've done, you were always willing to help others and a friend is what you always wanted to be, you never wanted to bother anyone, you'd leave things alone or just let them be, Everyone will have their memories about you, but you always had a smile on your face, you helped so many people with small favors that you did and are now looking upon your Savior's face, you always enjoyed watching dirt track racing and Alabama play football, it always gave us something to talk about, even though we couldn't agree on the team, you always wanted the best for others, that was part of your dream, you'd go outta your way for those who needed help, it's just who you were, a friend is what you always were to anyone, you always wanted to be there, you always loved being around little kids, didn't matter, you loved them all the same, they all knew you as "Big Daddy" and you were proud of that name, I hope that the garage in Heaven has all of the tools that you'll ever need and that you never break a sweat, take your time and do it right, you could be fixing The Master's Corvette
